

Carnival capers

PUPILS from Mansfield's St Philip Neri School travelled the world without leaving the school during a special carnival day to celebrate different cultures and countries.

They were joined by youngsters from neighbouring St Bede's RC Primary School, as part of a new modern language framework being introduced in primary schools.

The youngsters found out more about the Caribbean, Chinese New Year and the traditional dance music of South Africa, as well as making arts and crafts at the Rosemary Street school.

Said teacher Krustyna King: "I'm proud to say that everybody in the school pulled together to make this event special for our children. We are hoping to go for International Schools status in the future, and carnival day was a great way of helping our children to learn more about people and cultures from all over the world."
